

Proposed changes to this privacy act should be modeled after the State of Indiana's Telemarketing Act. Without a doubt this law has returned the appliance of the telephone back to me for my use not them.

Any weakening of Indiana's Law by a new "Federal Guideline" would result in an increase of my telephone ringing needlessly.

I pay for the telephone service in my home not them (the telemarketers), I decide what to buy and when not them, I don't need yet another path for junk to enter into my life.

If you would like to regulate something Shut down the Junk Mail Machines out there.

Thanks for your time.

I hope someone actually reads these comments.
